ROOSEVELT AND JOHNSON ON BULL MOOSE TICKET

COLONEL'S CONVENTION SELECTS CANDIDATES.

Both Accept Places Without Hesitation, Disregarding the Custodial Wait.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," the delegates to the first national convention of the Progressive party tonight acclaimed Theodore Roosevelt as their candidate for president and Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, of California, as their choice for vice president.

Marking a new departure of the proceedings of national conventions, the two candidates immediately were formally notified of their nomination and in the midst of deafening cheers appeared before the delegates to voice their acceptance and to pledge their best efforts to the coming campaign.

For several long hours during the morning and early evening the big crowd in the Coliseum had listened to a flow of oratory in nominating and seconding speeches in which the dominant note expressed was the belief that victory would come to the new party in the November elections. Raymond Robbins, of Illinois, pledged a 100,000 majority for the national ticket in Illinois, and Gifford Pinchot predicted a 300,000 majority for Col. Roosevelt and Gov. Johnson in his home State of Pennsylvania. These statements were cheered to the echo.

Changes Its Name.

The party formally christened itself "the Progressive party," leaving out the prefix "national," by which it has heretofore been known, but provision was made for the recognition of "real" progressives in any of the States by whatever name they should be locally designated because of State laws.

The convention adjourned at 7.24 p. m. with the delegates singing the "Doxology" in lusty voice. During the three days it was in session there was not a single roll call nor a ballot taken. The delegates asked no such formalities either in placing their candidates in nomination or in voting for them. There was not a voice in opposition either to Col. Roosevelt or Gov. Johnson. The delay in nominating them was due to the large number of seconding speeches allowed.

But One Fight.

As has always been the case in national conventions the bulk of the work of this gathering was carried on in committees. The only semblance of a conflict of opinion on the floor was a brief debate today as to whether or not an hour's recess should be taken. The point was not material, but as one delegate expressed it, "We just had to fight about something to make it a regular convention."

There was sharp discussion, however, in several of the committee meetings and no little difficulty in agreeing upon the platform as finally adopted. Roosevelt worked with the subcommittee in charge of the platform until late this afternoon, going over their work of the two previous days and nights and helping to mold the draft which at last proved acceptable to him. The platform did not take up the negro question.

VERY QUIET CAMPAIGN MEETING IN YORKVILLE

Meeting on Wednesday Proved Most Decorous—Buttons and Banners Absent.

Yorkville, Aug. 7.—Decorous and undemonstrative as York county audiences have always been the crowd of 1,900 to 2,000 people addressed today from a band stand in the court house by candidates for contested State offices was perhaps the quietest and best behaved that the campaigners have faced during this canvass. The use of the meeting left the question of a debate as to which of the real contenders for the governorship had the support of the majority, although candidates were employed in the case-Jones debate which usually drew the preponderating preference.

conventional campaign paraphernalia as badges and buttons, banners and streamers. An innovation was the music provided at intervals by the Yorkville concert band. The chairman, W. W. Lewis, presided with a firm hand. He exhorted the audience at the beginning to give all speakers fair play and admonished the candidates that no use of improper language on their part would be allowed.

SCHOLARSHIPS AT CLEMSON REPORTED BY PRESIDENT

Thirteen applicants had completed the seventh grade in school.
Forty applicants had attended schools that were not graded, etc.

These figures do not include the one-year agricultural scholarships. President Riggs of that institution has submitted the following report on scholarships awarded:

I respectfully submit the following report on scholarships to the Clemson Agricultural college:

In accordance with the State law the faculty of this college recommended that the applicants listed below be awarded scholarships to this institution. These applicants have also been qualified by virtue of financial inability as decided by the scholarship committee of the board of trustees. The list of eligibles as determined by this committee is attached to and made a part of this report.

The Newberry Scholarships.

The regular four-year scholarship for Newberry is awarded to Frank Wright, Newberry.

Under the one-year scholarships at large, W. W. Herbert, of Newberry, is among those who held on-year scholarships during the session of 1911-12, recommended to fill remaining vacancies in one-year scholarships at large. He is one of twenty-six applicants so recommended.

The one-year agricultural scholarship for Newberry is awarded to O. R. Boozer.

W. C. T. U. Picnic at Silverstreet.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will give a picnic on the Lutheran church grounds at Silverstreet on Saturday, August 10. THE SCHOOL LAW.

Request for Copies Will be Complied With as Soon as New Compilation Becomes Available.

County Superintendent of Education E. H. Aull makes the following statement:

I have had several requests from school trustees for copies of the school law. I am gratified to have the trustees inquire about the law, because it is evidence of their interest in the work and duties of the trustees. I would be very glad to furnish copies of the law, and would be glad also to have all trustees familiarize themselves with their duties, but just at present I have no copies of the school law on hand, apart from the statutes. In an endeavor to comply with these requests, I wrote the State superintendent of education, requesting that he send me some copies, to be furnished trustees, and have received the following letter, which explains itself:

"As you already know, the 1912 session of the general assembly adopted a new compilation of the code. The publication of this work was entrusted to the code commissioner and the code committee, of which Hon. G. S. Mower, of Newberry, is a member.

"The State superintendent can not publish the school law until the code becomes accessible. A premature, hasty, or incorrect edition sent out from this office would do injustice to every one connected with its publication. I am doing my utmost to furnish the pamphlet at the earliest possible moment, but up to this time I have not been able to secure an advance sheet of that section of the Code dealing with free public education.

"Your experience as a law-maker, and your intimate knowledge of public affairs, will enable you to understand this situation fully.

"I am writing Mr. Long a full statement of these conditions, and shall take pleasure in sending him a copy of the law as soon as the pamphlet is ready for distribution.

"Regretting the delay, I am, etc.

"(Signed) J. E. Swearingen, State Supt. of Education.

"August 5, 1912."

As soon as I can secure copies of the law, I will be glad to furnish them to any trustee who would like to familiarize himself with the duties of his position.

E. H. Aull, County Supt. of Education.

ACCEPTING BANNER, WILSON POINTS WAY

GOVERNOR WILSON FORMALLY ACCEPTS NOMINATION.

The Rule of Justice His Political Ideal—Not Personality But Principle Must Rule.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 7.—Slowly and with measured emphasis, Gov. Woodrow Wilson today unfolded the fabric of his political beliefs in a speech formally accepting the Democratic nomination to the presidency.

Establishing first what he termed his "faith" he invoked "the rule of right and of justice" to politics, proceeding in succession to show its application to the tariff, the anti-trust question, the restoration of merchant marine, the development of water ways, the conservation of natural resources, banking reforms and other issues of the day.

It was a motley throng that gathered at the summer capitol of New Jersey. Officially there was a notification committee of 52, representing every State and territory and with them came eight of the Democratic governors.

Spread over the green that stretches away from the governor's cottage to the ocean, however, was a mixed gathering of several thousand.

College professors and instructors there were from Princeton and elsewhere, clergymen from various parts of the State, marching clubs with brass bands, summer folk from seaside points, women and children, automobile loads of the curious from New York, Philadelphia and intermediate towns, and hamlets, and the usual stream of vendors.

A semi-circle of automobiles fringed the crowd which closed in tightly on the spacious lawn of the governor's cottage. On the veranda was grouped the notification committee.

Senator-elect Ollie James, of Kentucky, officially informed Gov. Wilson of the nomination in a speech that was mixed with applause. On the left of Mr. James was Gov. Marshall, the vice presidential nominee, and on his right was Gov. Wilson.

Gov. Dix, of New York, Gov. Foss, of Massachusetts; Gov. Baldwin, of Connecticut; Gov. Donaghey, of Arkansas; Gov. Plaisted, of Maine; Gov. O'Neal, of Alabama, and Gov. Mann, of Virginia, sat nearby.

With solemn attention the crowd listened to Gov. Wilson's speech of acceptance. Though frequently a satirical remark brought laughter, Gov. Wilson's exposition of his political doctrine was received with marked austerity.

The governor was plainly ill at ease at the beginning of his speech. He would have liked to discard the printed manuscript from which he read and speak, as has been his wont, extemporaneously.

Would Like to Speak.

"This might be more interesting," said the governor, digressing for a moment, if I did not have to read it."

As it was, the governor interpolated an epigram here and there which drew laughter and applause.

Death of Mr. J. C. Schumpert.

Mr. John Calhoun Schumpert died at his home at Utopia on Wednesday night at 11.30 o'clock and was buried at New Chapel Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, service by the Rev. J. M. Fridy. Mr. Schumpert was about 64 years old and leaves a widow and two sons and one daughter. He was one of the younger set of Confederate veterans.
